

What careers can my subject lead to?

History

History graduates have strong analytical and communication skills which can be put to good use in a range of careers including business, finance, journalism, politics, HR and law. They tend to be naturally suited to careers as museum or art gallery curators, or in academia or education.

Specific skills:

- good oral and written communication;
- ability to put together a logical argument;
- critical thinking;
- objectivity regarding 'right' and 'wrong';
- gathering, investigating and assessing material;
- condensing or expanding facts, ideas and arguments;
- using different types of sources to cross-reference;
- basing conclusions on statistical research;
- organising material in a logical and coherent way;
- presenting information literally, orally and visually;
- an interest in culture;
- an ability to spot a train of events.
